Marion Gets Federal Financial War Housing Aid

PROGRAM FOR PROJECTS HERE IS COMPLETED

City Receives Rating Entitling Builders to FHA-Insured Construction Loans.

Federal financial assistance for housing projects in Marion for war workers was assured today when Marion was given a defense area rating entitling it to FHA-insured loans for house construction purposes.

A. L. Guckert, district director of the FHA at Columbus, announced this development and said it clears the way for construction of houses for war workers including a number of proposed projects already set up.

Today's development originated in a presidential proclamation in Washington. It clears the way for private lending institutions to issue FHA-insured loans for war housing projects. Mr. Guckert said he understood a number of Marion projects had been set up on the basis of FHA loans, and that the sponsors of these projects could now proceed if they cared to.

Way Cleared for Work

He pointed out that the "defense critical housing area" rating given Marion recently cleared the way for priorities on construction projects here, and that with the FHA financial program assured by today's development, the way was clear for private builders who cared to put up houses for war workers.

Options have already been taken in Marion by private groups that have indicated they are planning to build some 200 houses in three separate developments. One is near Duluth avenue and Windsor street, another in Oakland Heights and another north of the Universal Cooler Corp.

Other Projects Studied

A number of smaller projects are also under consideration.

Meanwhile, Mr. Guckert said seven Marion residents have already filed applications in his office for priority assistance to provide 18 living units in Marion through remodeling projects. These would be privately financed. The applications will be forwarded to the War Production Board office in Cleveland, he said. If the FHA approves them, the projects can be started at once.

WAR PLANT CONTROL MANAGER ARRIVES

The building up of an organization to handle financial and accounting matters for the Scioto Ordnance Plant when it begins operations is the No. 1 task of W. J. Roberts, 43, who has arrived in Marion to serve as control manager for the United States Rubber Co., which will operate the plant for the war department.

Mr. Roberts, a Canadian, left home as a young man to join the Canadian army, and saw three and one-half years of service in France. As a result, he goes about his war plant job here with a full knowledge of the importance of munitions plants to the Allied war effort.

He brings to his job a background of accounting and financial activity that reaches to many corners of the world.

After the war, he had planned to return to Canada for more educational work, but instead started work for the Chevrolet Motor Co. in Detroit. At the end of five years he was general auditor of the company's home office and plant. Then he went to the export division of General Motors as treasurer, served as treasurer of the company's plant in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and after three years there returned to the New York office to serve as financial contact man for all of the company's South American, South African and Egyptian plants.

In 1937 he went with the U. S. Rubber Co. in charge of budgetary control and statistical work at the Detroit plant. In June of 1939 he was made control manager of the company's Indianapolis plant where he has been until transfer to Marion. His wife and their four children plan to make their home in Marion in the near future.

MAN NEAR LA RUE FINED FOR ANIMAL CRUELTY

Charged with Dragging Bull Behind Truck.

Ben Sager of near LaRue pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals and was fined $10 and costs in the court of Lawrence G. Fields, LaRue justice of the peace, last night.

Charges were filed by Elmer Ullom, Marion county dog warden, acting as an agent of the Marion County Humane Society, after it had been reported that Mr. Sager had dragged a live bull behind his truck Wednesday afternoon.

Witnesses told Mr. Ullom that Mr. Sager's bull had escaped from his pasture and that after capturing it the owner tied it to the rear of his truck. They said the animal was dragged until it fell, and after that was pulled along for several yards before the truck stopped.

Mr. Ullom said the bull is in a serious condition and in the care of a veterinary.

Mayor Urges All To Cooperate in Flag Day Plans

A proclamation was issued today by Mayor Russell C. Snare, proclaiming Flag Day, June 14, and asking all citizens to cooperate with the Flag Day committee in charge of Marion's Allied Victory parade by displaying the flag of the United States as well as the flags of other United Nations in their possession, and participating in all events of the day.

The proclamation, in full, follows:

"Each year, on June 14, the people of this community have observed Flag Day as a symbol of our allegiance to the ideals of our country. But, in this year of all-out war against tyranny, our allegiance is entwined with loyalty to all who battle alongside us, wherever they may be. As we have united in the past to build a mighty America out of pioneers who came here from many lands, so today we join with United Nations on every continent to fight for the age-old human ideal of freedom. We may differ with many of our allies in language, or religion, or form of

MRS. GEORGE N. HINDS STRICKEN SUDDENLY

Marion Writer of Natural History Stories Found Dead at Home.

Death claimed Mrs. Anne Gertrude Mealey Hinds, 66, widely-read Marion writer of natural history stories and winner of the 1941 Onioana Library essay contest, yesterday about 2:15 p. m. in her home at 197 East Washington avenue.

Bedfast for the last month of a serious illness of which she told no one until yesterday noon, she died during a short time that her husband, George N. Hinds, former member of the editorial staff of The Marion Daily Star, was downtown on business with Harold Boyd, a close friend.

A writer of hundreds of stories and articles dealing with natural history, Mrs. Hinds two years ago was elected to membership in the Outdoor Writers Association of America, an organization of 280 authors in the magazine and book field. She was one of only 10 women members of the association. One of the group, Lorene Squier, of Kansas, author, photographer and Arctic explorer, was killed two weeks ago in an automobile accident. The membership includes Osa Johnson, author and African explorer.

Mrs. Hinds was the only woman member of the Outdoor Writers of Ohio.

21 KILLED IN ARSENAL BLAST

More Than Score of Others Hurt in Explosion In Illinois Works.

By The Associated Press

JOLIET, Ill., June 5—An explosion rocked the mammoth Elwood arsenal, one of the largest in the nation, early today, leaving at least "21 known dead," Capt. David P. Tunstall, army press relations officer, announced.

More than a score were injured, and 28 others working in the shipping building escaped unhurt.

Three of the dead were identified, but Tunstall did not announce the names of any of the 40 casualties.

The blast, heard for a radius of 50 miles, destroyed the shipping building of group two of the Elwood ordnance shell loading plant, which had been described by its director as the largest in the world.

Captain Tunstall said there was no hint of sabotage, but that its possibility would be investigated by a board of inquiry.

Tunstall emphasized that operations in the one group would be interrupted only a short time. The plant was designed with the view of preventing and minizing explosions and was scattered over a large area.

The bombs that Gen. James Doolittle dropped on Tokyo possibly came from the Elwood loading plant and its companion plant, the Kankakee Ordnance TNT works, a government spokesman recently said.

The two plants were in production some time before Pearl Harbor.

Tunstall said the wrecked building, a brick and concrete one-story structure about 75 feet wide and 275 feet long, housed only the shipping facilities of one unit of the vast plant. Loading operations, in three other buildings in the vicinity, will not be interrupted, he said.

The $20,000,000 arsenal covers a 1,650-acre manufacturing area and has 85 miles of railroad tracks within 44 miles of fence.

The explosion broke windows in department stores in Kankakee, 22 miles away, and aroused residents of communities throughout northeastern Illinois.

A brother of one of the workmen in the demolished building said about 60 men were working in the structure when the blast came.

"The whole building went up," he said.

Captain Tunstall said the explosion would not halt operations at the arsenal, which employes more than 8,000 on three shifts.

Ohio War Bond Sales $32,384,920 in May

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 5 — Ohio sales of war savings stamps and bonds in May were $32,384,920, or better than the treasury department quota of $31,768,700, Roy D. Moore, state administrator of the war saving staff, announced today.

The May sales, however, were well below the advanced June quota of $42,722,500. The figures include all Ohio sales except a comparatively small amount made over the counter at the Cleveland Federal Reserve bank.

JAPS ACCUSED BY PRESIDENT OF USING GAS

Executive Warns U. S. Will Retaliate If Enemy Persists.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 5—President Roosevelt told today of official information that Japan was using poison gas against China and grimly declared that if the Japanese persisted in this form of warfare, the United States would mete out "retaliation in kind and in full measure."

The reports that Japan on several occasions had resorted to gas warfare was described by the Chief Executive in his press conference as authoritative. He read a brief formal statement, which he said the state department had prepared, making it unequivocally clear that the United States would consider the use of gas against China or any other United Nation as an action against the United States.

Manner Is Secret

Just where or what manner this retribution might be carried out was, of course, a matter of continuing secrecy. But the American bombing attack on key Japanese cities and military objectives in April came readily to the minds of Mr. Roosevelt's hearers.

However, the United States apparently would stand ready to use gas warfare, on the basis of Mr. Roosevelt's statement, against Japanese fighting forces anywhere in the world.

To questions whether he had any reports on the use of poison gases in the European war theater, the Chief Executive responded that he had had reports but that the were not yet authoritative ones.

"If they were authoritative, would we take the same position?" a reporter inquired.

The President dismissed that question by saying his interrogator had been around long enough to know better than to ask one starting with the word if.

"Suppose we say," another newspaperman remarked, "our policy with respect to the axis will be uniform."

Again, Mr. Roosevelt shunted aside the inquiry by telling his questioner he ought to be in the state department.

Cites British Stand

He agreed, however, that Great Britain had taken the stand with regard to Germany such as that now enunciated by this country against the Nipponese.

Prime Minister Churchill has warned Germany that if she uses poison gas against the Russians, the British inexorably will use it against the Reich.

Mr. Roosevelt said he did not wish to go beyond the language of his statement, which he said the state department had written very carefully.

He asserted that the various governmental departments concerned had concurred in the views cuncinted in that statement. He did not name the departments, but the war and navy departments naturally would have direct interest.

Asked whether he had any reports on the mistreatment of American prisoners held by the Japanese, the President said he had received nothing authoritative.

14 ARMY FLIERS KILLED IN CRASH

Heavy Bomber Falls After Takeoff.

By The Associated Press

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., June 5—Fourteen army fliers died in the crash of a heavy bomber near here last night, the army said today.

Flames consumed the wreckage when the plane hit a hillside as the pilot circled for an emergency landing.

The plane developed trouble soon after a takeoff and radioed nearby Hamilton field to clear a runway. The pilot circled twice over the field.

The big ship lost altitude and then dived into a hillside on the Herzog ranch, three miles north-west of Hamilton field.

Majority of Americans Expect Prosperity, Not Depression, After War

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 5—Thurman Arnold, the assistant attorney general, is going to like to hear these facts.

He has been saying that after the war this country will have a period of great prosperity, nob depression; that production of consumer goods will outstrip anything ever seen before; and that the coming Plastics and Light Metals Age will make the Steel Age and the Iron Age look pretty small.

A majority of his countrymen with opinions on the subject are inclined to believe Mr. Arnold is right. Perhaps more important is the fact that of all groups in the population the businessmen are the most inclined to agree that there will be prosperity, not depression, after the war. The least inclined to believe it are farmers and people in the lower income levels.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE PUBLIC OPINION

Nobody knows of course — not even the experts — just what post-war economics will be like. But those who think the country is gloomily resigned to the idea of a depression will want to study the results of the following Institute survey put to a carefully selected cross-section of the entire population of the country:

"Which do you think the United States will have for the first two or three years after the war—depression or prosperity?"

The vote is:

Depression	43%
Prosperity	45
Undecided	12

If the result is based on those with definite opinions, 49 per cent believe we will have depression as opposed to 51 per cent who believe there will be prosperity.

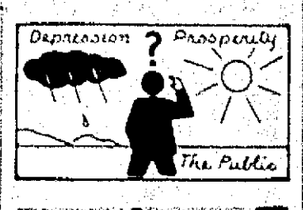
Businessmen Optimistic

The majority estimate, even if it is largely based on faith, is important from the point of view of public psychology. Mr. Arnold claims that fear of post-war depression creates a "psychological handicap" in business, and that economic pessimism might make some of the "dismal prophecies" come true.

Yet it is the businessmen throughout the country who are at present the most optimistic, as the following comparison by occupational groups indicates:

	Depression	Prosperity	Undecided
Business and Professional	34%	57%	9%
White Collar	39	50	11
Workers	42	44	14
Farmers	51	36	13

By income groups the results show that the upper brackets are much more optimistic than the lower. Among the upper group 56 per cent think we will have postwar prosperity; among the middle group, 52 per cent; and among the lower group only 38 per cent.



Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold believes there will be prosperity after the war is over. A small majority of Americans with opinions are inclined to agree with him, a Gallup Poll shows.

FINED $50 ON CHARGE OF DOG POISONING ATTEMPT

Former City Councilman Found Guilty in Municipal Court.

George Orr, 78, of 264 Park boulevard was found guilty by Municipal Judge Hazen yesterday on a charge of puting out poison for a dog. He was fined $50 and costs. He had pleaded innocent Wednesday in municipal court to the charge.

Arrested Wednesday morning at his home by police on a warrant sworn out by Chief of Police Marks, he was charged with putting out a large quantity of arsenic for a dog owned by Mrs. Olga Linn, his next door neighbor.

Several witnesses were called by the prosecution who swore that on May 23 they saw Mr. Orr, a former city councilman, throw a quantity of poisoned meat to the dog. The dog, a white spitz, was said to have been in the Linn yard at the time.

In his own defense Mr. Orr admitted being in the Linn yard but said he had been looking for [illegible]

JAPANESE SEA FORCES RENEW NAVAL ATTACK

Island Garrison Scores Initial Success in Battle with Enemy Force.

By The Associated Press

American defenders, spurred by initial successes, closed battle today with a strong Japanese sea-air task force in what may be a finish fight for possession of Midway Island.

Already the island garrison had scored hits on an enemy battleship, an aircraft carrier and possibly other war vessels. Raiding planes were brought down in great number.

Washington sources said American and Japanese fleet units apparently were engaged in one of the greatest battles of the Pacific.

The flaming sea battle was believed to be progressing long after the original attack on Midway was beaten off, with both sides maneuvering for advantage in what may be a crucial fight to determine Japan's ability to strike at such vital points as Hawaii, the Panama Canal and the American Pacific coast.

And, said Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, "Our attacks on the enemy are continuing."

This last assault on the tiny island outpost, last line of defense before Hawaii itself, began shortly after dawn yesterday.

It found the American forces keyed to fighting pitch by long preparation and patiently strengthened in the months since they first repulsed such an attack Dec. 7.

It found them alert and forewarned by the preceding day's raid upon Dutch Harbor, 2,000 miles to the north. It seemed the enemy may have stepped unwittingly into a spot too hot to handle.

But it also appeared strongly possible the Japanese did not intend this as a hit-and-run affair, like their five preceding forays against Midway.

Presence of capital ships in the attacking force and the heavy toll the defenders were able to exact in the first few hours of the operation suggested the enemy was at hand with the sole purpose of taking over the island, completely and finally.

And Midway, with the tradition of Wake Island as its guide, was obviously in no mind to let the issue go by default.

Admiral Nimitz' communique indicated the Americans' first success was achieved at little cost to themselves. He reported that damage to material and installations on the island, 1,140 miles northwest of Hawaii, was minor.

"No reports on personnel casualties were received," the communique added.

Nor did the admiral clarify which units of the United States defenders delivered the telling blows against the Jap battleship and carrier.

All Services in Battle

"The attack was repulsed by local defenders in which all armed services are represented," he said, indicating that marine, sea and air forces were in action.

The admiral's communique said:

"The Japanese carriers were accompanied by battleships and cruisers. One battleship and one carrier, definitely were damaged and other vessels are believed to have been hit. Our attacks on the enemy are continuing."

Broadening the fast developing Pacific war, the Midway raid followed by a day two raids of

BRITISH SMASH TANK ASSAULT

Rommel Throws Strong Reinforcements Into North African Battle.

By The Associated Press

Marshal Erwin Rommel was reported moving strong axis reinforcements into the bloody 11-day-old battle of North Africa today as the British announced they had smashed an axis tank assault on Bir El Hacheim for the second time in two days.

Bir El Hacheim, a desert water hole, is the southern anchor of a 50-mile British defense line stretched across the hot sands to the Mediterranean sea.

British headquarters said British and Indian troops striking from the rear to relieve the Free French and Indian garrison at Bir El Hacheim after the defenders had twice rejected German demands that they surrender the key stronghold.

Front-line dispatches said Rommel was speeding fresh troops and tanks into the battle sector around Tobruk in an attempt to relieve pressure on a 9-mile corridor which axis

Attack on Midway Seen As Start of Strong Jap Drive

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 5—The attack on Midway by a Japanese battle fleet following feeler raids on Dutch Harbor was regarded by naval experts today as foreshadowing more violent enemy action on the American side of the Pacific.

It was the first time that Japanese battleships have been reported east of home waters.

There was no immediate indication here whether a major portion of the enemy fleet was involved, but observers agreed that the presence of so large a force more than 2,000 miles from Yokohama indicated the Japanese were bent on reducing America's growing offensive power in the Pacific and possibly bringing the war within threatening distance of the west coast.

The Japs grand strategy is still to be disclosed. Washington authorities could at best only cite the possibilities based on what has been announced to date.

Part of Jap Plan

The Midway and Dutch Harbor assaults, however, were viewed as evidence of a carefully conceived plan which may have any one of three ultimate actions in view:

1. An effort, preliminary to an attack on Russia, to destroy or conquer Alaskan bases and thereby cut a route over which aerial reinforcements might be moved to the Soviet armies in Siberia.

2. Clear the way for a new and powerful attack on Pearl Harbor, or even the western U. S. coast and Panama, by trying to knock out aerial reconnaissance and interception forces.

3. A new attempt to cut U. S. supply lines into the Pacific by forceful seizure of Guardian islands south of

LANDON IS CRITICAL OF RUBBER PROBLEM

Urges Use of Grain To Make Synthetic Product.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 5 — Alf M. Landon, Kansas oil operator and 1936 Republican presidential nominee, said today the government could solve the rubber shortage and the farm problem at the same time by making rubber not from petroleum but from alcohol produced from grain.

"I do not think I am taking any shingles off my own roof," he asserted in a speech prepared for a meeting of the Chicago Executive club, "because in the long run the oil industry would benefit by the greatest prosperity the farmers ever knew."

The former Kansas governor was critical of administration handling of the rubber and gasoline problems, asserting:

"The whole rubber situation has been fumbled from start to finish, and we are paying the penalty. As the facts are revealed by congressional committees, it is the President, and not Jesse Jones, who slowed down the synthetic rubber program . . .

"It has not yet appeared definitely whether it is rubber or gasoline the administration is trying to save. There are no figures to convince the public on the gasoline end. If they want to save rubber, why did they not start at that end, instead of the roundabout way. They have confused a long-suffering, patriotic people by not representing the situation candidly. By their lack of candor they have created difficulties."

He said it was "generally recognized there is no reason for rationing of gasoline" because even in the east stocks were only slightly less than a year ago.

Despite a tanker shortage, Landon declared petroleum deliveries to the east "could be greatly increased, and can still be, if Secretary Ickes would listen to practical men of the oil industry. But Mr. Ickes knows it all—in theory."

He recommended completion of short pipeline loops to eliminate bottlenecks and suggested the railroads could deliver even more than 650,000 barrels of petroleum a day "if Mr. Ickes would permit them to do so."

In spite of what he called confusion at Washington, Landon declared the country as a whole was doing a magnificent job in the war effort.

Admiral Lauds Ship Building Capacity of U. S.

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, Wis. June 5—Rear Admiral Howard L Vickery declared today that, given the necessary steel, the nation's shipyards in one year could build "more tonnage than the entire British merchant marine had at the beginning of the war."

Vickery, the 50-year-old vice chairman of the U. S maritime commission, summarized the story of ship production in the United States by saying some of the bombs dropped by American planes in the battle of the Coral sea were carried to the Pacific war region in ships whose keels were laid after Pearl Harbor.

forces had driven into the British main defense line.

British mechanized forces were reported slashing at axis tanks holding the breach, while German dive bombers pounded furiously at British positions blocking Rommel's advance toward Egypt.

A Rome communique said German and Italian planes shot down 26 RAF aircraft in bitter dogfights over the Libyan desert battlefield yesterday and declared counter-attacking axis troops had driven back strong British forces.

Other European war developments.

Arctic Supply Route — Two blows against Germany's attempt to disrupt the vital far-north sea lanes to Russia were reported today.

Norwegian quarters in London said RAF bombers had scored several direct hits on the 35,000-ton Nazi battleship Tirpitz and on the heavy cruiser Admiral Hipper in an attack at Trondheim, Norway.

Trondheim is a naval concentration point for German thrusts against the allied supply route to Arctic Murmansk and Archangel.

One of the Nazi warships was said to have developed a definite list.

Soviet dispatches reported that Russian planes, fighting to safeguard the ocean route for war material from Britain and the United States, hammered home three sharp attacks on bases from which German bombers have been ranging the seaways.

At least 40 Nazi planes were reported destroyed and Nazi airfields were heavily damaged.

Air Warfare — RAF bombers omitted attacks on Germany overnight for the first time this month, centering their blows instead on the channel "invasion" port of Dieppe, France, and airdromes in Nazi-occupied Holland.

Before sunrise, RAF fighter squadrons carried on the offensive with attacks along the French coast. Explosions rumbled across the channel for two hours.

Russian Campaign — Soviet headquarters reported that Russian artillery had smashed a German attempt to drive a wedge into Red army lines on the Bryansk front, 210 miles southwest of Moscow, throwing the invaders back with 280 killed.

The long battle line as a whole appeared quiet.

Hitler's field headquarters said German troops gained ground in attacks on the Ukraine, Moscow and Leningrad fronts, but these were apparently only minor actions.

A Rome broadcast, quoting German military quarters, said Russian sea-borne forces attempted a landing on the north shore of the sea of Azov in the Ukraine, behind the lines of German - held Taganrog. The broadcast said the Russians, attacking in three motorized barges, were driven off.

FLAG DAY

government, but we are united on a basic principle now challenged by Axis aggressors. It is the principle that human beings have a right to be free, that they have a right to decide for themselves what kind of government they wish, that they have the inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"To pay tribute to the unconquerable determination of the twenty-six United Nations—to give the citizens of this community an opportunity to express their conviction that the spirit of freedom will never die, and that our cause will be victorious—to express our confidence in the sincerity, the gallantry and the mutual respect of the United Nations whether they are now on the battle-lines whether their lands are temporarily under the heels of Axis tyranny, or whether they serve by supplying the vital materials of war.

"As Mayor of Marion, I hereby proclaim June 14, 1942, Flag Day and I ask all citizens to cooperate with the Flag Day committee in carrying out a fitting observance of this day. I ask the people of Marion to display the flag of the United States as well as the flags of other United Nations which may be in their possession. I ask for full participation in all ceremonies which may be held in this community so that the world will know that Americans stand shoulder to shoulder with our allies in the undying determination to fight until victory is ours."

Meanwhile Robert T. Mason, general chairman of the Allied Victory parade, his marshals and chairmen, were busy today with details of the huge parade, which promises to be one of the largest and most colorful public expressions of patriotic enthusiasm ever staged in Marion.

Capt. Henry D. L. Van Boskern, of the war department office of the area engineer for the Scioto Ordnance Plant, in a memorandum to all personnel, quoted from President Roosevelt's proclamation on Flag Day, asking that on June 14, "the people of our Nation honor the peoples of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, the Union of Soviet Socialistic Republics, China, Australia, Belgium, Canada, Costa Rica, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, the Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, India, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Poland, the Union of South Africa, Yugoslavia—knowing that only in the strength and valor of our unswerving unity shall we find the force to bring freedom and peace to mankind."

Elks To Take Part in Parade

Active participation in the Allied Victory Parade on Flag Day, June 14, was voted by Marion Lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks at a meeting last night.

A. L. Kessler, W. T. Owen, C. W. Davidson and Faydell Welch were apointed by the exalted ruler, A. L. Thomasson, to take charge of details of the lodge's participation.

Three candidates were initiated.

Following these are pictures of the football and basketball teams and a resume of each game played during the season.

So There Isn't Any Santa Claus

ONE of these days the government will come out flatfooted for gasoline rationing as a means of curtailing the use of automobiles. The government in this case will be represented by the spokesman with ultimate authority, President Roosevelt himself. It won't make its decision known through some scared congressman or group of scared congressmen from the oil regions, nor through a board, a commission, or Secretary of Interior Ickes, nor even through the too willing mouth of some undersecretary or unidentified authority.

In short, the public's cue at this stage in the proceedings is to take it for granted that gasoline rationing is coming and give its ears a rest. When the big moment comes, President Roosevelt should go on the air with one of his famous chats to explain what it is all about and thereby undo some of the mischief that has been done by the blabbermouths and speculators. Actually, it's not nearly so complicated as it has been made to sound.

Last Dec. 7 Japan caught the United States fleet with its flags down in Pearl Harbor. Soon afterward, Japan was in possession of the places where 90 per cent of this country's rubber supply has been coming from. Meanwhile, the United States had gone to war in earnest. Everybody was busy. This meant that private automobiles, essential transportation for millions of citizens, were busy—but with no prospect of replacing wornout tires, with certain numerically unimportant exceptions.

There were close to 28,000,000 of these passenger automobiles. Probably a minimum of 20,000,000 must be kept going for the duration of the war, unless the national transportation system is to break down from overloading. Hence gasoline rationing to force users to conserve their cars and tires for the long pull. Mr. Roosevelt should be able to make it perfectly clear with his famous gift for explaining things.

Demolition Bombs in Wall Street

ONE effect of Britain's mass air raiding occurred in Wall Street. The market sagged. Rails, steels and coppers grew weaker under the impact of the demolition bombs.

Analysts dealt delicately with the financial reason for this result of British success; it's never safe to generalize broadly about the stock market. But they were uniformly sure that the prospect of a shorter war than had been expected was concerned.

A short war or a shorter war would affect the earning prospects of railroads drastically. It would have a tremendous impact on metals. The war boom would be terminated; there would be the question of transition from war to peace economy to answer—and that is, of course, a question that hasn't been answered yet.

Perhaps it will be, or perhaps the decision can be postponed indefinitely. As Prime Minister Churchill has explained so many times in connection with post-war plans, all discussion must start with plans for winning the war so post-war planning will be possible.

Nevertheless, the effect of the mass raiding on the stock market was a sharp reminder that the task of building a better world won't be suspended when the aggressors have been driven back inside their boundaries; it merely will pass into a succeeding phase that wasn't handled well after 1918 and must be handled better after 1942, or 1943, or 1941—or whatever the date in history for the end of World war II is destined to be.

Will Germans Be Glorious?

THEORETICALLY, the British should have gone to pieces when Hermann Goering turned loose his aerial armada over their island in the late summer and fall of 1940. But they shook their fists at the sky, excavated their dead and refused to be beaten. Refusal to admit defeat has been, militarily, a bothersome British characteristic. Many times they have upset their enemies by stubbornly refusing to admit they were licked when, obviously, they were licked—only to emerge in the long run with victory.

This was extremely important in the days when Great Britain could have been invaded because about all it had left, besides its aviators, was courage. The government depended heavily on it. Prime Minister Churchill could take it for granted at the time and boast about it afterward. The British became united under the lash of the greatest adversity they had known for generations. They rose to the crisis. They were glorious in their darkest hour. Will the people of Germany be similarly glorious under mass aerial bombing?

If Adolf Hitler could take that for granted, he could spare himself all doubt. But to do so he would have to be sure that his Germans had as strong a sense of justice on their side as Mr. Churchill's Britons. He would have to be sure that they wanted war as ardently as the British wanted to avert war. He would have to be sure that they would draw inspiration at the critical moment from their firm belief that ultimately they were going to win. And if Hitler can be sure of any one of those things, all the suppositions on which the war against him and his co-conspirators is being waged are false. Only Hitler, Mussolini and the Japanese samurai are sane—and the rest of mankind is crazy.

News Behind the News

MacArthur Pouring Steady Stream of Bombs on Jap Advance Bases.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 5 — Do not overlook the import of dispatches from General MacArthur's front. He has been bombing the advance Jap bases of Rabaul and Lae daily, while all that the Japs have been able to present in the way of retaliation are twice a week air thrusts at northern Australian points.

These flights have the Japs sitting out overland on the short journey to Moresby and Lae. (You will read this column better with a map). First they were halted in the jungle by floods; the next two times by Australians, and perhaps some Americans.

They also tried to come around in great naval force to take it by sea. But they ran into MacArthur's bombers and a large American naval force and retired after the famous battle of the Coral Sea.

Lately they have been sending over planes in apparent preparation for a parachute attack next, but MacArthur is keeping plenty of interceptors around handy to receive them.

While he has no air in Australia, he flies fighters or interceptors over to do their missions against Jap aircraft in New Guinea and then refuels them there before returning. Thus, without staging bases around Port Moresby, he nevertheless has been able to maintain supremacy in the air there.

You can read the results of these tactics plainly in the public utterances of the Australian Prime Minister John Curtin. A month ago he was hollering his head off for help. Last Wednesday he dared the Japs to invade.

MacArthur's Tactics

The Japs probably never intended to invade Australia, but they have their eyes on certain strategic northern points, Broome, Port Darwin and Wyndham. All they have been able to do about these is to bomb them and make them somewhat hazardous points for MacArthur to base any large number of planes. He can use them but he cannot enlarge them much.

We now have a considerable force in Australia. The Aussies have a couple of divisions freshly back from Libya. (The Japs know all this). About 250,000 more Australian troops are ready now, the group they started to train before Pearl Harbor. Many more are in reserve, not yet quite ready for action.

While Australia is a very large place, and the Japs could no doubt land at many northern points if they could get sufficient force together, it appears MacArthur's tactics have definitely stopped their southward aggression.

His way of breaking up their "irresistible" sea-land-air blitz advances has been to keep them from getting started. His idea is to hit them before they start, and his daily bombings of Lae and Rabaul have served that purpose better than repelling them at Port Moresby or in Australia.

Indian Invasion Fades

Most of the Jap naval forces have been withdrawn from the Bay of Bengal, which suggests that the threat of India is likewise growing more remote. American bombing of the Andaman islands caused the yellow fellows to move their seacraft back to safety.

Also the rainy season has started out there in sufficient force to discourage any attempt against India at this time.

Jap Drive in China

The Jap pincers drive into China, however, remains an indistinct but serious threat. More Jap troops are constantly being poured into central China.

So far they have not shown sufficient initiative to warrant the conclusion that they want to drive through into the heart of China, and annihilate the Chinese armies. They seem only to want to push deep enough to seize any airfields from which Japan might be bombed.

Their accumulation of strength in China may likewise be designed for safety against a possible Russian attack, or for starting one. At any rate it is clear they are massing their major strength in the center of radius of their conquests, and near home.

The Chinese blew bridges on the Burma road, but the Japs came up the Salween river from Burma and have now cut all the alternative land routes from India.

These roads upon which 50,000 coolies were put to work and the railroad lines that were being constructed have been abandoned by the Chinese. The only ways still open are through the skies and around by camel and elephant pack through lofty Tibet.

A dispatch from China recently said we had 10 transport planes running to Chungking, making two trips a day, but these can do little more than carry parts and supplies for our fighting P-40s in the Chinese air force.

Mexico's War Step

May Bring Really Solid Latin American Solidarity.

By JOHN GROVER

MEXICO'S entry into the war against the Axis after the sinking of a Mexican tanker may really solidify the Latin-American "solidarity bloc."

Of all the nations to the south, only Argentine and Chile, now maintain diplomatic relations with the Axis. The failure of these two countries—two-thirds of the dominant A-B-C group in South America—to sever relations was accounted a minor diplomatic triumph for the Axis.

Chile and Mexico have been closer than any of the Latin American countries. Their "New Deal" governments have been leaders in social legislation, and developments in one country are quickly reflected in the other.

Chile Considers

The Mexican stand already has made Chile take stock of its neutrality. El Siglo, a leading Chilean paper, called for official cognizance of Mexico's action, and a re-orientation of Chile's position in world affairs.

Argentina, dominated by a reactionary minority determined on isolationism, helped influence Chile to maintain relations with the Axis. Should Chile take the plunge, Argentina would be on a spot. The Argentine government, which has suppressed prevalent anti-Axis sentiment in the country, would no longer be bolstered by another major neutral. With their country, the only one in the Americas still on speaking terms with the totalitarians, the Argentine reactionaries might be hard put to it to justify their position.

Axis Nationals On Spot

From the standpoint of active prosecution of the war, Mexico's entry as a belligerent should result in tighter control of German, Italian and Japanese nationals in that country. The recent action of congress in voting funds for a barbed-wire fence along the U. S.-Mexican border indicated that official agencies considered Mexican control of Axis citizens insufficient.

The Axis has important interests in Mexico. It is indicated that all Axis property will be sequestered, and that damages incurred in ship sinkings will be paid from Axis funds. This "cutting 'em off at the pockets" will seriously hamper any subversive activities.

Last War Was Different

In the last war, Mexico was determinedly neutral and German agents had a field day there. Throughout the 1917-18 conflict, there was marked uneasiness about Mexico's power to sabotage our war effort.

This time, Mexico is solidly with the new world against the totalitarians. The commercial pacts that give the United States the Mexican metals production are an important reflection of Mexico's good neighborliness.

On the military side, the availability of Mexican east coast bases for anti-submarine patrol will contribute importantly to control of the undersea menace in the Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico. It is to be expected that a belligerent Mexico will increase precautionary garrisons on the vulnerable coasts. There will be a closer liaison between the United Nations staffs and the Mexican military, and Mexican troop dispositions will conform to an integrated pattern deemed in the best interests of the mutual war effort.

But the real value of the Mexican stand lies in diplomatic and psychological fields. It is further proof that the Latin-American countries are solid against the Axis, and the possibility of effective fifth column activity in this hemisphere is markedly decreased.

Not So Comfortable . .

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY — Consider the case of O. E. Mason, in charge of an oil field salt water disposal system.

Mason has been getting around oil fields for 21 years—on rubber tires. Now he uses a horse.

One of his duties is the checking of 22 salt water meters. For six years he has ridden—on cushions—26 miles every day, covering his meter route.

"It took six hours by truck," says Mason. "I've cut the distance to 18 miles by horseback by riding across country and it still takes six hours.

"Gosh, I'm sore!"

Snakes Spur Workers

By The Associated Press

PUEBLO, Colo. — A big job of surveying that had to be done near Pueblo is going to be finished ahead of time—thanks to snakes. Murray Wilson, the resident engineer, said the snakes hibernate in early spring but come out with the arrival of warm weather. "So the surveyors are stepping right along," says Wilson.

The coastline of Borneo is about as long as the distance from San Francisco to New York.

KNEE DEEP IN JUNE

Congress Is Jittery

All of Which Seems Rather Easily Explained.

(Last in a series of three articles on Washington After Six Months of War.)

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, June 5 — Any constant visitor to congress in the six months since we were blasted into World War II would certainly notice two things: (1) That congress is as jittery as a mother hen with the shadow of a hawk flying over her brood; (2) That while the pre-war period was marked by the energetic activities of more than a fistful of fire-eating factional leaders, the war so far hasn't produced one outstanding congressional leader.

To take the second matter up first, I have no intention of detracting from the efforts put forth by Sen. Harry S. Truman and his committees' investigation of the conduct of the war; of Sen. Harry F. Byrd, and his special committee's fight to keep down non-war expenditures; Rep. Carl Vinson and his house naval affairs committee; of Rep. Clarence Cannon, of Missouri, who as chairman of the house appropriations committee, has invariably given a thorough analysis of all proposed expenditures; of young Rep. Albert Gore, of Tennessee, who fought so hard for the Baruch anti-inflation program.

These men and others have worked hard, but none has emerged with congressional laurels that would cause him to be pointed to as new wartime leader on Capitol Hill.

Plausible Explanation

As for the jitters, they are easily explainable and may almost entirely be attributed to the fact that this is election year, with a third of the senate and all of the house having to face the voters in summer primaries and a general election in November.

I think most observers on the Hill are sympathetic to the plight of congress. Six months after Pearl Harbor, the congressmen are facing a legislative log-jam composed of nearly all the regular appropriation bills that all-important tax bill, the 36 billion dollar or more war department appropriation, the WPA appropriations bill, the small business relief measure, to mention just the outstanding. That ordinarily would keep congress busy for more than a regular session, yet all of those legislative hurdles have to be taken before Congressmen can get back home for any concentrated fence mending.

Variety of Answers

The criticism that followed the congressional pension and X-card gasoline ration matters brought a counter-blast from Congress the like of which has rarely been heard. Some of it was sane, some of it purely petulance.

One congressman got so far afield the other day that he wrote into the record a long defense of congress' attitude toward the fortification of Guam, a criticism which I haven't heard for months and one which no one put forward very seriously.

At another time a senate leader declared on the floor he wanted it noted that congress had given the administration everything it had asked for—the first record I believe of any congress priding itself of having rubber stamped administrative recommendations.

Save Shells for Jap

By The Associated Press

JUNEAU, Alaska — Returning from a tour of 54 native schools in all sections of the territory, George A. Dale, associate supervisor of education for the Office of Indian Affairs, reports the natives are reviving their ancient fishing and hunting arts in order to conserve ammunition.

Wherever possible, he said, natives are taking game without the use of ammunition, and he quoted one old Eskimo as explaining "every time a seal is taken in a sinew net, that saves one .30-30 cartridge for Mr. Jap."

241 Parts in Sled

The ration book states the age of the person to whom issued. August Hanebuth, manager of safety, has told police if the age of a young lady at a bar it doubtful an officer should ask her to produce her ration card to prove that she is not a minor and therefore eligible to buy a drink.

"I ask that the various trades participating in the construction of the Scioto Ordnance plant present their craftmanship and the part they are taking as a matter of pride in showing the people of the surrounding counties of Marion what it takes to build one of these projects. We will have a display of military material to show these people what comes out of these plants and I want you men to organize floats typical of your trade and craftsmanship to show these people what it takes to build the plants that produce the munitions. Mr. Norton and his sign shop crew will once again come forward with their decorative ability. "We can not expect that the government will pay for the work you will do and I believe each and every one of you will be glad to donate your time towards this cause. DEHYDRATING MEAT SAVES SHIP SPACE

New Methods Seen as Boon to Meat Industry.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 5—Disclosure that large scale lend-lease export of meat is at hand, through a revolutionary shipping space saving method of dehydration, was heralded in the packing industry today as a major development in the Lverstock-meat trade.

Meat is to be dehydrated and shipped in containers requiring only a fraction of the cargo room needed for transportation of a corresponding quantity during the World war. Packers estimate enough meat can be packed into a military plane to feed a whole division for a limited period.

Of equal importance with the space saving feature was disclosure that beef would be shipped to American allies and armed forces. This attracted special attention in the cattle industry since up to now most lend-lease shipments have been pork and lard.

There were some estimates that the compressing of meat by the new process would permit shipment in one vessel of a quantity equivalent to the cargo of ten ships a quarter century ago.

The new method, developed by packers at the request of government officials, involves cooking of meat, pre-cooking and drying in air dryers or vacuum. This produces small palatable pellets to which it is necessary only to add water to make a substance almost identical to fresh ground meat.

Packers believe the dehydrated product eventually may become popular with domestic consumers. Their kitchen experts have worked out numerous menus for dishes including meat loaf, hamburger, hash, and combinations with vegetables.

According to the American Meat Institute, government lend-lease buyers are expected to be in the market shortly for both dehydrated beef and pork.

conservation and restoration of Ohio's wild life. It was one of two historical stories she wrote in her long career as an author. The other was the prize winning Ohioana contest entry. All of her other writings were devoted to natural history.

Membership in the Outdoor Writers Association of America brought her contacts with writers throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico, and invitations to outdoors events in Canada, the Bahamas and Chesapeake Bay, invitations which she could not accept because of her health.

Until recent years she and her husband traveled many thousands of miles to visit historical spots and study natural history, gathering material for her stories and articles and for the historical stories and articles which Mr. Hinds has written over a long period of years.

Won State Prize

Last September Mrs. Hinds' story of her husband's great-grandmother, born in England in 1772 and an emigrant to Marion county in 1779, won $100 first prize in the "Who's Who Among Pioneer Women" essay contest sponsored by the Ohioana Library. The award was announced at the annual meeting of the Ohioana Library at a luncheon honoring Ohio authors. Mr. Hinds was with her when the award was announced.

Before her condition became such that she was forced to take to her bed, Mrs. Hinds started an article on the late Clyde Powers, stage manager of the famous old New York Hippodrome and nationally known as a trainer of animals. She was preparing the story to submit to a nationally circulated weekly magazine. Mr. Powers was the brother of Mrs. Henry S. Kraner of 461 South State street.

Mrs. Hinds was a reporter and feature writer on The Marion Star for 14 years prior to 1920, during the time the paper was owned by the late Warren G. Harding. Her newspaper career began on the Richwood Gazette when, at the age of 13, she began work as a typesetter. Later she wrote for the paper and for two years was on the editorial staff of The Marion Tribune. Years ago she was correspondent for the Cincinnati Enquirer, Ohio State Journal, Marysville Tribune and other papers in Ohio.

Widely Known

She developed her talent as a story writer, concentrating on the outdoors, which she loved. Recently J. Hamond Brown, editor of the Baltimore, Md., News-Post, commented editorially to the effect that Mrs. Hinds was the best-informed outdoor woman in Ohio.

Mrs. Hinds was born in Richwood on June 20, 1875 to F. M. Mealey, a native of Fredericksburg, Md., and Margaret Newhouse Mealey, a native of Warrensburg, O. Her father's people were French from the Isle of Man and came to this country with Lafayette. They became plantation owners in Maryland. Her grandfather, Anthony Mealey, lived in Warrensburg at the time of Perry's victory on Lake Erie, her great-grandfather served with General Harrison in the Indian wars and her great-great-grandfather was killed aboard the brig Hampton in the Revolutionary war.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinds were married in Marion on July 17, 1917.

Mrs. Hinds was a member of the former Methodist-Protestant church in Richwood, Circle 4 of the Ladies Aid society of First Presbyterian church, Lydia Chapter No. 83, Order of Eastern Star, and the Burroughs Nature Study club.

Mr. Hinds is the only survivor. Mrs. Hinds' four brothers, Frank, Charles, Edward and Robert Mealey, preceded her in death.

The funeral will be conducted Saturday, at 3:30 p. m. in the Hinds home by Rev. M. E. Hollensen of Emanuel Lutheran church. The casket will be placed in the vault at Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the home after 7:30 tonight.

Expansion of the Japanese raid on Dutch Harbor into an attack on our Midway island, with heavy naval and air forces, compels us to take a wider view of these operations and note they are further indications that we are on the verge of a general axis onslaught which will try to force a decision in the World war this year.

While the precise purpose of the Japanese raids are still in doubt, they fit in perfectly with the signs that the axis volcano is about to erupt. Certainly the fact that the Japs struck at little Midway in strength, even employing a battleship, would seem to indicate that they are bent on something more than hit-and-run raids. They are building towards a climax.

Also a part of this broad picture, is the thus far unsuccessful but determined Libyan offensive of Nazi Marshal Rommel in an effort to get set for a drive against Egypt and the Suez canal. That is an integral item of the Hitlerian strategy for conquering the Middle East and reaching the supplies which Germany must have.

The Nazi fuehrer is about to strike, and his allies and henchmen are coming into action.

Any day now we may expect him to launch against the Muscovites that much advertised "spring" offensive which has been so long delayed.

We are on the verge of the conflict which bids fair to be the greatest and bloodiest of history. Upon its course depends in major degree the outcome of the entire World war.

Private advices say the Nazi chief has ready for action some 200 divisions of fresh troops—in the neighborhood of two and three quarter million men. These are in addition to the million and a half who have been holding the long Russian line during the winter.

He also has that vast Nazi air fleet which has been largely idle for months. Hitler apparently has been husbanding and adding to his aerial striking power for coming events. The strength of this armada is, of course, problematical but military experts are agreed that it is a mighty force.

All this sounds formidable—and indeed it is. Any allied complacency because of recent successes certainly would be badly misplaced, and it should be emphasized that the allied high command is in no way underrating Hitler's strength. He is a dangerous enemy.

What we can note with satisfaction is that drawn up against him is a Russian force numerically superior. Whether the Reds are equipped to withstand the mechanized German onslaught cannot be answered in advance of the event.

If the Russians can keep the Germans from breaking through to the resources of the Caucasus and Middle East, the allies will have Herr Hitler neatly speared on the toasting fork.

As Hitler strikes so probably will the Japanese intensify their operations in cooperation. The Nipponese may even thrust into new fields of venture. They may direct their fire against the United States; they might hit at Russia. Opportunity and conditions of the moment will guide their strategy.

$50 PAY FOR TROOPS SEEN

Senate Approval Is Predicted; Rates for Dependency Deductions Fixed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 5—Early congressional approval of $50 monthly minimum pay for the armed forces appeared likely today, with the probability that Soldiers, sailors and marines having dependents would be required to contribute $20 to $22 a month toward the support of their families.

The pay increase question lay in the lap of a restive senate, smartly under charges it was being niggardly in not accepting immediately a house proposal to boost the salary of buck privates to $50, instead of the $42 it voted previously.

With Senator LaFollette, Progressive of Wisconsin, pressing for a showdown vote on Monday, influential senators who had sought more time for compromise efforts admitted privately they had little doubt that the higher figure would be adopted.

Set Dependency Action

The house arranged meanwhile to take up on Monday a family allowance bill passed by the senate yesterday under which wives of military men receiving $78 a month or less would be paid $50 monthly for their support, the first child $12 and other children $10 each.

The senate-approved measure would require the enlisted men to contribute $22 of this amount, the government paying the rest. In addition, he could elect to contribute $5 more, to which the government would add $15 for a dependent parent, $25 for two parents and $5 for each additional brother, sister or grandchild. If the soldier had no wife or children, his contribution to the latter class of dependents could be $22, on a voluntary basis, and the government would add $15 for one parent, $25 for two, and $5 for a brother or sister.

A house version of this measure would provide only $40 for the wife, of which the enlisted man would contribute $20, with the government providing $10 for each child.

Order of Selection

Another provision of the senate bill would authorize the selective service, under the President's direction, to fix the order in which registrants would be called for active service.

Senator Taft, Republican of Ohio, said this section ought to make it fairly certain that men of 30 or over had been married before the draft would be the last to be called.

He said Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, had indicated that men would be classified and called in the following order:

1. Registrants unmarried or married since the draft law was enacted.
2. Men with dependent parents who would be taken care of by federal allowances.
3. Married men with no children.
4. Married men under 30 with children.
5. Married men over 30 with children.

Senate Votes Higher Pay To Dependents of Soldiers

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 5 — The senate has approved cash government allowances for service men's dependents much more liberal than those voted in the first World war and slightly above rates carried in a bill now pending in the house. If finally enacted, here's how it would work:

Q—Who benefits?

A—Dependents of men of the four lowest grades in the army, navy, marine corps, and coast guard, or those whose base pay is $78 a month or less.

Q—Of what would an allowance consist?

A—Of monthly deductions from the man's pay plus government contributions.

Q—How are dependents defined?

A—There are two classes, A and B. Class A includes wives, children, and former wives who have not remarried and to whom alimony has been decreed and is still payable. Class B includes parents, grandparents, grandchildren, brothers and sisters.

Q—What would be the pay deductions and government contributions?

To Class A dependents:

	U. S. Contrib.	Pay Deduct'n	Total
Wife, No Child	$28	$22	$50
Wife, 1 Child	40	22	62
Wife, 2 Children	50	22	72
To Class B if there is no Class A dependent:
1 Parent	15	22	37
2 Parents	25	22	47
1 Parent, 1 Sister	20	22	42
To Class B if there is also a Class A dependent:
1 Parent	15	5	20
2 Parents	25	5	30
1 Parent, 1 Sister	20	5	25
1 Parent, 2 Sisters	25	5	30

Q—How would allowances be applied for?

A—Those payable to Class A dependents would be approved on application of the enlisted man, the dependents, or any other person on behalf of such dependents. Those payable to Class B would be on application of the enlisted man, except in cases where it would be impracticable for him to do so, when the department concerned would be authorized to permit applications to be made by or on behalf of such dependents.

Family allowances payable to Class B dependents could be ended at any time by the enlisted man. The government contribution to Class B dependents would be limited to $50 a month.

NEW FOOD COMMITTEE CREATED BY WPB HEAD

Nelson Forms Group Headed by Sec. Wickard.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 5—War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson today created a food requirements committee under the chairmanship of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard to control the production and allocation of all civilian and military food supplies.

Establishment of the nine-member committee, within the war production board, is expected to be followed in a few days by announcement of a combined British-American food board, with Wickard as the top American representative.

The new committee will determine civilian, military and foreign food requirements, Nelson announced, and has authority to speed up or curtail domestic output of foods "as well as the importation of foods and agricultural materials from which food are derived."

5 SHIP SINKINGS BRING CALL FOR SUB PROBE

Navy Action Against U-Boats in Atlantic Likely.

By The Associated Press

Announcement of the sinking of five more allied merchant vessels and a navy patrol boat may result in a public investigation of the navy's campaign against undersea raiders.

As the navy reported yesterday the recent loss of the patrol boat and four merchantmen in the Atlantic and one merchantman in the Far Pacific, Chairman Ellender (D-La) of a senate naval affairs sub-committee said in Washington that naval officers might be called in a public hearing.

"If we are not entirely satisfied that everything possible is being done to halt these sinkings," Ellender declared, "We are going into the whole matter in public."

The sinkings announced yesterday brought United Nations or neutral shipping losses in the Atlantic to 18 reported so far this week, and boosted the total since Pearl arbor to 245 merchantmen sunk in Atlantic waters.

Besides the patrol boat — the U.S.S. Cythera — two American merchantmen were among the victims announced yesterday.

Both of these were sunk in the Caribbean area.

The other Atlantic sinkings were those of a British merchantman in the Gulf of Mexico and another allied vessel in Canadian waters.

Scene of the Pacific sinking was off the east coast of Australia, where Japanese submarines destroyed an allied vessel.

WASHINGTON, June 5 — A Norwegian medium-sized merchant ship has been torpedoed and shelled by an enemy submarine in the Atlantic and a Dutch medium-sized ship has been torpedoed, the navy announced today, adding that survivors of both vessels were landed at an east coast port.

President Starts Study of Gas, Rubber Problem

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 5—President Roosevelt began today a comprehensive study of the interlinked shortages of gasoline and rubber.

He summoned to the White House for conference on the problem 11 government executives vitally concerned with the issue.

To a question whether he would order nationwide rationing of gasoline by mid-July, he responded at a press conference that he was going to begin talking about the gasoline situation at the noon parley.

Star That Led Tokyo Raid Falls in Dayton

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., June 5—A star that led American bombers to Tokyo fell here yesterday.

One of the silver stars designating his rank was torn from the shoulder of Brig. Gen. James Doolittle when a parachute strap caught on it as he was testing a new plane over the city.

"The star went twinkling down into the streets of Dayton," an associate of the army flier reported in Washington.

JAP DRIVE

after diverting American forces into the North Pacific.

4. A knockout try against the bases from which Japan may be attacked.

The relation of Midway and Dutch Harbor to any projected attacks anywhere on the North American continent arises from the fact that they flank the vast expanse of ocean over which an assaulting fleet would almost certainly move. Planes operating south of Dutch Harbor and north of Midway should be able to keep a fairly good watch over the 1,853-mile stretch of water between those two points.

Diversionary Move

Even if an attack in force were made against Alaska the Japanese fleet units participating undoubtedly would take a round-about course to their objective so that an effort to prevent reconnaissance from Midway would be a logical screening operation, and the assault on Dutch Harbor would fall into the category of either a preliminary raid to test strength or an attempt to divert defense forces from the scene of the main attack.

If the enemy's plan is to try to wipe out Midway preliminary to attacks farther east—in which case the Dutch Harbor attack would have been chiefly diversionary—he may anticipate that he is in for trouble.

Yet, just as at Wake and Bataan and Corregidor, if the Japanese want to take Midway at any cost—and the fact that battleships, aircraft carriers and cruisers took part in yesterday's raids indicates that intention—they may possibly succeed in doing so.

An attempt to drive the United States out of Hawaii unquestionably would produce one of the greatest battles of history.

Allied Planes Sink Six Japanese Subs

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, June 5 — Allied planes, protecting the vital shipping lanes over which United States war supplies are flowing into Australia, have sunk two Japanese submarines and probably a third off the east coast of this continent, General MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

This success brought to six, and possibly seven, the number of Japanese submarines and probstroyed by the defenders of Australia in the last five days.

CHUNGKING, June 5 — The Chinese high command announced tonight that about 8,000 Japanese were killed or wounded yesterday in fighting around Chuhsien, rail center in western Chekiang province.

That increased the number of Japanese casualties reported in two days of fighting for the important walled town to 10,000.

Observers here said the Chinese announcement might indicate a decisive turn in the fierce battle for the western Chekiang air base area from which Japan might be bombed.

BIG ALLIED CONVOY IS SAFE IN INDIA

Reinforcements Arrive as Japs Near Border.

By The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, INDIA, June 5—As Japanese forces pressed to a point 45 miles east of India's frontier, the British announced today that the largest convoy of reinforcements ever to come to the defense of India had been unloaded at eastern India ports.

The reinforcements included light and heavy anti-aircraft guns, British and American light and heavy tanks and a large number of both fighting and technical personnel.

The convoy put into Indian ports early in May and was so big it could not be handled at any one port. It came through without loss.

Among the troops were some Indian soldiers trained in Britain and other troops with battle experience in France and Libya.

Crews for Hurricane fighters and American-built Kittyhawks now operating in India arrived on the convoy.

The number of troops and material was described as possibly the largest ever to leave the United Kingdom.

Japanese troops have reached Homalin, 45 miles east of the Indian-Burman border, and are continuing to rush troops up the Chindwin river in Burma, a British spokesman said today.

The spokesman declared the Japanese evidently planned to strengthen forces holding captured territory in Burma.

Homalin is on the Chindwin river, 200 miles northwest of Mandalay.

The spokesman said RAF attacks slowed Japanese barge and boat movements up the river.

"We confidently await the day when this struggle will have ended and the gospel of Jesus Christ once again will be given free course among the nations of the earth," the resolution said in part.

MIDWAY

Japanese planes on Dutch Harbor, Alaska.

The Midway attack was the first the Japs had aimed at that island since Admiral Nimitz flew there last month to decorate four naval and marine officers for their bravery in previous raids. At that time he said the ground and air forces under Commander Cyril T. Simard had demonstrated a commendable efficiency of coordination.

Japan's first, and previously their heaviest, attack was made by cruisers and destroyers Dec. 7, the same day of the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor precipitating the war with the United States.

Shelling submarines and raiding planes carried on attacks which reached five on March 10, the last one delivered prior to yesterday's heavy assault. Marine corps aviators were decorated by Admiral Nimitz for shooting down a four-engined Japanese patrol seaplane in the March 10 attack.

Last Western Outpost

Midway is the last United States' outpost in the Pacific to the northwest of Hawaii, Wake and Guam having fallen to the Japanese.

Thousands of miles to the west, other naval actions marked the growing struggle for control of the seas:

Australia—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that allied planes guarding the vital lanes in which U. S. war supplies are flowing to Australia have sunk two more Japanese submarines and probably a third off the east coast of the "down under" continent.

The new successes made a total of six and possibly seven Japanese undersea raiders destroyed in the Australian theater in the last five days. Four enemy midget submarines were sunk in an abortive raid on Sydney harbor on Sunday.

Madagascar — Imperial Tokyo headquarters asserted that Japanese "special" (two-man) submarines had torpedoed and seriously damaged a 30,000-ton British battleship of the Queen Elizabeth class and a 5,220-ton British light cruiser of the Arethusa class in a surprise dawn attack on Diego Suarez naval base, Madagascar.

Tokyo's claim met a swift denial by the British admiralty, which said Japanese submarines attacked the British-occupied base on May 30 but added: "There were no casualties in his majesty's ships."

British sea-borne forces captured the French colonial base, off the southeast coast of Africa, on May 7.

UNFAIR TO LOVE

By Watkins E. Wright

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Kathleen's Chance

RUBY HOWARD, enjoying herself thoroughly settled at Uncle Frank.

"True, she said 'he was' I realized. Really knew I meant."

Mr. Frank, refilling his pipe and taking a plate herself, thought she looked to him seem when there was a hint of strain upon her face.

"I'm glad you like it," he said gently. "After all my nephew

Ruby seemed not sure. "But I never want to give that impression. Stella might have a right to settle down and make a home and part of life with Joe."

"Yes, it has occurred to me," said Uncle Frank. "But it's not quite fair. I'm afraid Stella doesn't love Joe enough to make it a happy life."

"I wonder," said Ruby troubledly, "if I'm fair to Joe."

"You do," Uncle Frank said. "I keep thinking of you. Will you sit in? And I keep thinking also now much like Stella you are in some ways. It's almost as though Stella had come back to me—with a lot of improvements."

"That's a queer sort of thing to say, Mr Frank—but I love it. I'm taking it as a compliment. Do you mind?"

"Certainly not. I mean it for a compliment."

"And you still feel," Ruby continued presently, "that Kathleen should give up all thought of the stage—and live this sort of life?"

"I do," Uncle Frank replied.

"Tell me frankly, straight from your heart: would you advise Kathleen to go on trying to be an actress?"

"I don't think I would," Ruby said after a moment's thought. "And yet I may feel differently about it when I see her acting

"Wednesday you are going to see ..."

"It looks that way. Paul wants to give me a small part in 'Goodbye, Henry Clinton.'"

"Can't you keep him from doing that?"

"I could make a scene, I suppose. But it wouldn't do much good—only make everyone unhappy. Besides, since I'm encouraging Joe to write me a play, I am scarcely in a position where I can criticize Paul for encouraging Kathleen."

We Shall See

"No I suppose not," said Uncle Frank. "Maybe it would be best in the long run for Kathleen to have her chance. She may be a terrific flop professionally—and, frankly, I hope and pray she will be. Then, once she's convinced she isn't cut out for the stage, she may settle down and marry Joe."

Ruby smiled, and patted Uncle Frank's hand. "We shall see what we shall see," she said cryptically.

"Maybe there's some handwriting on the wall, after all," said Uncle Frank. "On the outside of the barbecue house—or some place like that."

Joe Neely came up.

"The play's all ready for reading," he said.

"Good!" said Ruby. "Suppose you read it to me tomorrow."

"I thought it would be nice if you read it—aloud," said Joe. "I could get a better idea of how the lines sound."

"And the rest of us could listen," said Kathleen, who had come up just in time to hear Joe's words. "We can all sit out on the porch—or in the honeysuckle arbor, and have a real reading like when—"

"Like when the director reads a script to the cast," Joe cut in. "You said that before."

Ruby looked at them. Such a nice couple, she thought—and what a shame for them to be so snappish with each other.

"Very well," she said, "I'll read the play aloud, Joe. If the others want to listen, let them."

"Okay," said Joe. "Although I was counting on you reading it to me alone."

"Selfish!" said Kathleen.

Ruby smiled. "I'll read the play aloud, Kathleen, on one condition," she said.

"What's that?" Kathleen wanted to know.

"That you read aloud to us the part in our play that Paul wants you to do."

"Oh!" said Kathleen breathlessly. "But I haven't got the part yet!"

"You will," said Ruby, watching Paul come toward them. "Something tells me you'll hear the good news very soon."

To the Canoes

During the rest of the day Kathleen walked as one treading upon a feathery cloud. At last a part in a professional play, in company with honest-to-goodness actors! Her happiness was so great that she felt she simply must share it with others—and as a result she was graciousness personified.

Joe, watching her, thought he had never seen her lovelier. Her eyes shone. Her color was high. Her hair was a bright halo about her beautifully-shaped head.

And as the guests who had been invited to the barbecue, and who were not staying overnight, began to leave, they did so with hearts as full of gratitude for Kathleen's sweetness as their stomachs were full of barbecued pork and all the fixings.

Kathleen now turned her attention to the people who were to be her guests until sometime the next day.

"If anyone gets hungry," she said, "there'll be sandwiches and a bowl of salad in the dining room—also the makings of iced tea."

"Hungry?" said Daisy Doran. "I feel now as though I could never again eat a bite of food."

"You'll feel differently before bedtime," said Uncle Frank. "Anyway, it's there for you."

"What time will the moon be up tonight, Uncle Frank?" Kathleen asked.

"Around nine o'clock, I think," her uncle replied.

"Suppose we plan to do our canoeing then," said Kathleen. "That all right with everybody?"

"Suits me," said Daisy. Sue smiled at Joe. "Remember," she smiled at Joe. "Remember," she said, "I'm counting on you, Joe, honey."

"Yas'm," said Joe.

"There are three canoes," said Kathleen. "Just enough for three couples."

"Where do I come in?" said Uncle Frank, laughing.

"You never cared for canoeing," Kathleen reminded. "Or that's what you always told me."

"Well, can't a man change his mind—the same as a woman?"

"Of course, but—"

"You can stay here and talk to me, Mr. Frank," said Mrs. Buxton. "I don't like canoeing either."

"Then it's all settled!" said Kathleen.

"All except who canoes with whom," said Paul.

"I'm taking Ruby, if she'll let me," said Fred. "I'll give us a chance to discuss some directing problems in next week's play."

"Very well," said Ruby, "although I wanted to get away from shop talk while I was out here."

Paul slid over beside Kathleen. "That leaves you and me," he said. "I hope you don't mind."

"Of course I don't!" said Kathleen. She glanced over to where Daisy was holding on to Joe's arm. "You two seem to have your plan all made."

"Yes," said Daisy. "Joe's going to show me how to handle a paddle."

"Really?" said Ruby, not bothering to conceal the sarcasm. "Do be careful, my dear," she added, "and don't tempt Joe to handle the paddle—on you."

German March Into Poland Dramatic Time for Newsmen

Lochner Recalls Incidents as "Der Tag" Arrived for Start of War in 1939.

...ing story, Louis P. ... of the former ... bureau in Berlin and ... to New York, re... the dramatic de... experienced in covering ... Tomorrow: Will ... by Hitler?

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

NEW YORK, June 5—For the ... correspondent stationed ... during the present war up to America's entry into it, one of the most dramatic moments came on that night in August, 1939, exactly one week before hostilities with Poland opened, when suddenly all connection with the outside world was broken off.

For weeks and weeks we had been expecting "der tag."

Our Berlin office had sent Angus M. Thuermer to Gleiwitz, near the Silesian-Polish border, because we knew the staff headquarters for the army which was to march into Polish Upper Silesia to be located there.

Barred from Prussia

We tried also to send Edwin A. Shanke into East Prussia to cover expected developments there, but he was refused permission to enter the area. Thuermer, incidentally, was allowed to remain only long enough to see the war start.

Then came that fateful night in August. Our long distance wires were in full operation.

Suddenly, in the midst of a sentence, sharply at 7 p. m., both the telephone and the telegraph stopped short.

We were cut off from the outside world by orders of the military!

It proved later that some one had slipped. Originally the war was to have started a week earlier, it seems, and when Hitler decided to postpone it nobody thought of issuing new instructions to the censors.

Within the next 10 minutes we had telephone calls in for practically every capital in Europe. The telephone operators invariably answered: "There is a temporary disturbance in the line."

Then came a lucky break: Across the street from us in the offices of the French Havas news agency the direct wire into Paris had not been cut.

Get Through To Paris

Our Havas colleagues permitted us to file our copy into Paris. To the amazement of the Germans, America next morning had a full story of developments in the war that didn't come off as scheduled.

By the time the war really started a week later, a control system was officially set up, amounting to a sort of honor system of self-censorship, under which we were able to get out news until the day of our arrest and internment Dec. 11, 1941.

The night of May 9, 1940, will also be remembered. It was the night before Hitler's armies inundated Holland and Belgium.

One of the strange things about the war against Holland and Belgium was practically every foreign correspondent in Germany knew it was coming, yet very few Germans had any inkling of it.

Dramatic, too, were the incidents attendant upon Hitler's march into Soviet Russia June 22. It seems to me as though virtually everybody I encountered knew the war was coming—that is, everybody except the Russian correspondents accredited to Berlin, and even they may have been pretending.

Late in May one of my informants whose information had always proved true came to tell me that at 3 a. m. on the fourth Sunday in June Hitler would march into Russia. I checked with our American military attaches, who said all reports indicated that tremendous army concentrations were in progress on the German-Russian front.

Evidence kept piling in on our office that the informant was right, although no other source was so precise as to date and even hour.

From time to time I contacted my Russian colleagues. They insisted I was all wrong, that relations with Germany were quite normal, and that Soviet Russia was supplying all the raw materials that Germany asked for. They stuck to this version, for one reason or another, to the end, although gradually even the man on the street began to talk of the imminent war with Russia.

On June 21, I decided to let my car stand before my house that night, because undoubtedly the foreign office would summon the correspondents to a press conference in the wee hours of the morning as they had done in the case of Poland, Denmark and Norway, Holland and Belgium, and Yugoslavia and Greece.

At 3:20 a. m. the foreign office rang up to say that at 5 a. m. there would be an important press conference conducted by the foreign minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, himself....

The attack had begun.

10-Day Little Grand Circuit Harness Meeting S

Dates of June 30-July 10 Set Up for Marion Meet.

Despite wartime restrictions programs have been formed many harness racing [illegible] will be established. Marion will again have a 10-day Little Grand Circuit harness meeting from June 30-July 10, Fairgrounds Secretary Harrison Suley Co. announced today.

It will be fourth straight year that Ohio's short stop circuit horses have raced here on the Fairgrounds track. The meeting is one of the few Ohio [illegible]

The annual meeting at Columbus, which normally opens the Ohio trotting season, is among the [illegible] ings called off for the duration.

A majority of the horses which will race here are regular campaigners in the Grand Circuit meetings.

The meeting will again be held under the auspices of the Marion Hospital board.

The entire schedule calls for night racing with full eight-event programs certain nearly every night, Chairman Foster said.

Entries for the early closing events must be in by June 15, he said.

The horses will come here following meetings at Goshen, N. Y., and Flint, Mich.

Officials for the meet are Steve Phillips of Zenia, starting judge, and Joseph McGraw of Washington, Pa., presiding judge. Both men worked the last three Sand Ship meetings here.

ERIE ADVANCING

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 5—Erie, winner of three successive games from Charleston, Mid-Atlantic league leaders, pressed within four percentage points of second-place Zanesville today. The Sailors bested Charleston 4 to 2 last night as Canton blanked Springfield 4-0. Zanesville's percentage is .542, Erie's .538. The Dayton - Zanesville game was postponed.

FARMER JONES IN ARMORY MAT WIN

Floors Rufus Jones Twice for Main-Go Decision.

Farmer Jones, Ivan Kallmkoff and Martino Angelo won the featured bouts on last night's edition of Promoter Lee Fishbaugh's weekly mat program in the Armory arena.

The husky Arkansas farmer defeated Joner in two consecutive falls, and at all times was in control of the mat trickery. He repeated kicks and jabs consistently forced the spela-skinned New Yorker to the outer extremities of the ring.

A series of kicks followed by a shoulder stand gave the rugged Arkan-sas pig producer the initial fall. He gained the second and deciding fall on a body press.

Ivan Kallmkoff, who has been giving the local fans their money's worth in recent weeks, really turned in a brilliant showing last night in disposing of bulky Leo Jensen. He gained the first fall in less than 40 seconds on a crab hold. Despite a lengthy slugging spree for which he was nearly disqualified the Mad Russian upset Jensen a second time with a body press.

Martino Angelo, the Canadian-born Italian, applied a tough arm lock to Lefty Pacer, succeeding in forcing Pacer to give up the first fall without an extended recap. Because of an arm injury resulting from the armlock, Pacer was unable to return to the ring to finish the match.

Universal Cooler Softball Team Tops Industrial League Standings

All offense, no defense keynoted last night's meeting of the Holabird & Root-Universal Cooler Corp. softball teams at Presidents field. A total of 34 base knocks netted a 16-12 score in favor of the Universal Cooler team.

The victory advanced Universal Cooler to undisputed first place in the Industrial league standings and dropped Holabird & Root into a three-way tie for fifth place with Commercial Steel and Osgood.

Pete Bascos and Howard Hodges belted four-base hits for the winners, while McClymonds belted one homer for the Holabird & Root outfit.

S. W. O. C. 1949 of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. continued in a three-way tie with General Excavator and Huber for second-place honors by virtue of a 7-5 victory over Osgood at the Uncapher avenue Marion Steam Shovel Co. diamond. Born allowed the winners a total of nine hits, while Green limited the Osgood batters only eight safeties.

Huber recorded its second win of the season in disposing of Hunkin-Conkey No. 2 by a score of 2-1. Millisor set the arsenal workers down with a scant four hits, while Roy Everly, who pitched a one-hit effort for Epworth No. 1 Wednesday night against Greenwood No. 2 in the Sunday School league, allowed eight hits. The Nomads achieved the first triple play of the season in the third inning of last night's contest.

General Excavator experienced little difficulty in scoring a 6-1 decision over the Commercial Steel team at Lincoln park. D. Douglas twirled two-hit ball for the winners.

Jim Bagby Hurls Indians To Second Straight Win Over Bosox.

By The Associated Press

Mel Ott is likely to be remembered in baseball as the quietest record breaker of the record.

Nobody [illegible] thought anymore, but every time the 33-year-old outfielder - manager of the New York Giants nets a home run or draws a base on balls he breaks the all-time National League record—which he himself [illegible] odds.

Yesterday he broke another—the runs batted in mark of 1,582 that Rogers Hornsby took 23 years to set—and Ott performed the deed in such a muffled way that [illegible] not even have been noticed if people hadn't been waiting and watching for the last week. He didn't even get a ru

Pirates Bill Werber

Bill Werber on third base in the third inning of a game at Chicago with the Cubs, Ott lofted a long fly to right and Werber scampered home with the run that credited Ott the record in his 17th season. The Giants won 4 to 3.

Every time Ott drives in a run now he will set a record and fans will thrill by more of it than they do his blasts on base and home run marks—unless he remains active long enough to get close to the record for both major leagues, 2,209 set by Babe Ruth during 22 years in the American league.

The St. Louis Cardinals strengthened their hold on second place in the only other National league encounter by beating the Boston Braves 6-2.

Edgar Loses Ninth

In the American league the New York Yankees sent Edgar Smith, the unlucky southpaw staggering to his ninth straight defeat with an 8-2 verdict over the Chicago White Sox. Joe Gordon and Buddy Hassett extended their hitting streaks to 20 and 15 games, respectively.

The Detroit Tigers pushed across seven runs in the last two innings to beat the Philadelphia Athletics 6-7 and the surging St. Louis Browns bettered the Washington Senators 7-2.

Lashing Les Fleming led the Cleveland Indians into Yankee Stadium today with another notch in his hat for busting up ball games in the final frames.

Double Does It

The port side puncher did it again yesterday when he cracked out a double after two were out in the ninth to drive in the tying and winning runs, and then scored on a single to give the Tribe a 4 to 2 victory over the Red Sox at Boston.

The Borox forged ahead, 2-1, with one in the eighth on a walk and Bobby Doerr's double.

Fabian Gaffke opend the ninth for Cleveland by walking. Kenny Keltner and Jeff Heath flied out to DiMaggio. Mills walked, sending Gaffke to second, and then Fleming smacked his two-bagger to tally them. Lee crossed the plate with the final runner on Ray Mack's single.

Red Birds Defeat Milwaukee Team Twice, 3-2, 14-4

By The Associated Press

The [illegible] Columbus Red Birds [illegible] have started to [illegible] the rest of the American association and they are [illegible] toward [illegible] them to the champ [illegible] last year.

[illegible] from Milwaukee last night should provide a [illegible] boost.

The [illegible] to the Brewers, by scores of 3-2 and a tremendous 14-4, enabled Kansas City to climb two games ahead in the league [illegible]. The Blues captured their seventh straight win and the [illegible] in the series with Toledo by clipping the Mud Hens, 4-2.

St. Paul took its ninth straight defeat as Indianapolis swept a double-header, 4-3 and 5-2. Louisville and Minneapolis split a double bill for the third straight night, the Millers taking the first 2-1, and dropping the 12-inning second, 6-5.

OHIO STATE

but if things are going against us the least bit, it's hard to tell what will happen to our gate receipts."

Taylor predicted, however, that the 10-game attendance at Ohio State's games this fall would approximate the eight-game attendance of 1941, when 488,471 saw the Bucks in action—breaking all records by 88,738.

Rationing Will Hurt

"Tire and gasoline rationing probably will cut deeply into the attendance by out-of-towners," he said, "but some of that slack will be taken up by defense workers having more money to spend for sports. The Illinois-Ohio game, shifted to Cleveland from Champaign, will produce more fans than it would have drawn in Illinois, while the two service games, against Fort Knox and the Iowa Air Cadets will hike the total considerably."

No matter how high the attendance soars Ohio State will not show a profit next fall, for all funds over operating expenses will go to the army-navy relief work.

Book Sales On Par

Season ticket sales, with the books costing $15 for seven home games, instead of $11.50 for five contests as in the past, are about 50 per cent of last year's on comparative dates, Taylor said. The ban against use of high school buses for all trips except to and from classes probably will slash attendance of the scholastic customers far under the 45,000 who were guests at two games last fall.

While the Illinois-Ohio game Cleveland may draw a big gate, Taylor said he expected it to cut materially into the attendance of games in the Buckeye stadium.

"It's possible," he said, "that fans in northeastern Ohio will attend only one Ohio State game, due to the gasoline and tire restrictions, and they'll probably pick the one closest to them—the contest in the Cleveland Stadium.

Taylor said the university had about $25,000 in new athletic equipment on hand—enough to run practically all sports for two or three years—but that some of next season's baseball, track and other minor sports engagements might have to be called off because of transportation problems.

"If that's the case we'll save money," he declared, "for we seldom break even on those jaunts.

"We have trimmed our budget to the bone for next year, hoping to hand over as much as possible to the relief funds. We are prepared for one of our worst financial seasons, but are hoping for one of the best."

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, June 5—With Jimmy FOXX gone, Joe CRONIN figures on himself as the Red SOX regular first baseman. He has started seven games so far at third base, short and first and the SOX have won five of them.

But old Double X claims that the club's best first sacker is Paul Campbell, who gave up trying to get Jimmy's job and shifted to the outfield. . . Word floating around Belmont is that the racing commission is getting ready to throw the book at Wendell Eads for his rough riding tactics.

Service Dept. — Fred Apostoli and Billy Soose, who play golf together at Norfolk, work together at the naval training station and travel together to give exhibitions, which they say are hard to give in a convincing way, agree that the navy has improved their boxing. "These novices can teach us old pros a lot of new tricks," Apostoli explains. Tub Thumper George Strickler of the National football league reports that the movie of the Chicago Bears' 1941 touchdown parade, with comments by George Wilson, is rated tops in entertainment at mid-western army camps. . . Sergeant Major Screen, who used to run the mule, manage the football team at Loyola of the South, reports from Karuchi, India, that the army certainly is broadening. He got his air corps training in Florida and spent some time in Australia before being sent to "the blistered heel of the world."

121 GIVEN DIPLOMAS IN BUCYRUS EXERCISE

Class of 50 Years Ago Honored at Commencement.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, June 5—Diplomas were presented to 121 graduates of Bucyrus High school at the annual commencement exercises in the high school auditorium Thursday night.

Dr. Harry C. McKown, professor, lecturer and author of Gilson, Ill., gave the commencement address.

Of the 14 surviving members of the graduating class of Bucyrus high school of 50 years ago, ten were present and were given recognition and presented with diplomas. The old grads were given seats of honor on the stage for the commencement exercises.

Rev. F. Widman, president of the school board, presented the diplomas. His daughter was a member of the class.

Musical numbers included the processional "March Noble," Bach, by the high school band; a selection by the senior members of the glee club and a number by the senior girls of the glee club. The senior instrumental ensemble also offered one selection. The Rev. G. A. Hickman offered the benediction.

WAR STOCKS CLIMB TODAY

Orphans Given Attention as Peace Talk Fades to Murmur.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 5—Peace talk became only a faint murmur in today's stock market and some of the recently neglected war orphans turned around and retrieved portions of their losses of the past several weeks.

The list edged forward but soon encountered profit taking on the two-day rallying swing and mixed trends prevailed. Steels, aircrafts, and chemicals attracted bids. Declines were plentiful. Dealings about equalled those of Thursday.

Bringing in a little more short covering and new buying, brokers suggested was the reptile of the Japanese at Midway, further air raids on the Germans and the arrival in India of a big United Nations convoy.

Among better early share performers were Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Douglas Aircraft, Spencer, United Aircraft, Anaconda, American Telephone, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical and Goodrich.

Off at intervals were Chrysler, General Motors, General Electric, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil (NJ) and U. S. Gypsum.

GRAIN RECOVERY HALTED BY DECLINE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 5 — Wheat prices were down a full cent a bushel at one time today and corn sagged almost that much as the grain market's recovery of the past two sessions was halted.

A let-up in demand from the mill and flour trade was blamed partly for the reaction in wheat. Uneasiness because of war reports from the Pacific also was a factor and the market largely ignored Kansas messages telling of crop deterioration in some parts of that state the past week or so. One report suggested bumper crop prospects in some localities have been reduced.

Leonski was arrested several days after the body of Miss Gladys Lillian Hosking, 40, a university chemistry school secretary, was found May 18 near a United States army camp. The arrest was subsequently announced by General MacArthur's headquarters but the identity of the prisoner was not disclosed officially until today.

YOUR HEALTH

Study of Mumps

MUMPS IS A disease of late winter and early spring. It is also a disease of childhood, 88 per cent of cases involving children less than 15 years of age. One attack usually affords permanent immunity, but every general practitioner can cite cases of second and even third attacks.

Nine-tenths of city residents above the age of 16 have had mumps, whereas in scattered farm communities, remote from the city, only about 20 per cent of the entire population have had mumps. In some regions only one young adult out of 10 has had it. This explains why pupil nurses and military recruits are apt to come down with the disease within the first three months of their training. Thus mumps becomes a military problem and concerns us in that respect.

Recent research has confirmed the finding of Johnson and Goodpasture in 1934 that mumps is a virus disease. The virus exists in the saliva during the first 48 hours of the disease and can be transferred to monkeys. It has also been transferred to humans when experimental volunteers allowed the virus to be sprayed into their mouths.

These studies in the consideration of mumps, however, have not advanced us in discovering a method of treatment nor has it really helped very much in prevention, although prevention of mumps by the use of convalescent serum after exposure is of established value. The protection afforded lasts only about 14 days and is therefore of value in preventing an epidemic but is of little value once an epidemic is under way.

Mumps affects the salivary glands, and the swelling of the face is due to inflammation of the parotid and sub-maxillary glands. On the whole it is a mild disease in spite of some complications which are troublesome, but its importance is derived not from its severity but from the amount of disability that it causes.

In World War I mumps stood third among the diseases in time lost in the hospital, ranking next to venereal disease and influenza. Undoubtedly with the surge of research work on the virus diseases that is going on now, methods of prevention and cure are likely to be found which will mean an increase in the efficiency of the Army personnel.

One of the reasons why mumps causes so much time to be lost is on account of the long incubation period and the long period of quarantine which the medical corps of the Army and Navy insist upon. The incubation period—the time between exposure to the disease and the time when the symptoms appear—is usually at least two weeks. The quarantine period—the time during which an individual is capable of spreading the disease even after the symptoms have subsided—is from six weeks to two months. This quarantine period is not usually insisted upon in civil life, but it always was in my day in Army hospital and meant, of course, a tremendous loss of time.

There are estimated to be 370,000 bicycles in use in China, the number licensed in the Shanghai area exceeding 75,000.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Promises Jack She Won't Tell Katherine About Him. Then He Explains Loss of His Cryptogram.

"I AM NOT prepared to subscribe to that, Jack," I told my brother-cousin, smiling at him affectionately, "nor can I say that Hal would make a better husband than you could if you would put your whole mind on the job. But if you mean he would make a better husband than you have proved for the last few years, then I agree with you.

"However," I went on quickly, "that is beside the point. Katharine loves you only. It is your job to vindicate her choice. Can you do that?"

"If I live, I can—and will," he said solemnly. "But Margaret, you must not ask me to see her now. I will not expose her to the peril any knowledge of me would involve.

"It was bad enough to put you in danger," Jack went on, "but at least I did not do that of my own volition.

Won't Endanger Katharine

"Fortunately for Katharine—and for your children—these people evidently and rightfully believe that she knows nothing of me, and therefore are not searching in that direction. That's why I must not go near her until this thing is cleared up."

There was the finality in his voice which I knew of old. Jack always was slow in making any important decision, weighed every consideration carefully, but once he had made up his mind, nothing could change it.

"For the same reason," he said, "Katharine must not know that you have seen me, nor must I send her any word."

"But surely you could trust her—"

"Her discretion, yes" he said, "her emotions, no. If by any chance these fiends should decide that she did know something of my whereabouts and succeeded in getting in contact with her, demanding information—perhaps threatening your children—her eyes alone would betray her knowledge. So it's far better that she knows nothing of me or my present activities, and I am counting on your honor, Margaret, to say nothing whatever to her about me. You have heard nothing of me. Will you remember that?"

"Yes, I will remember," I told him, "and I will say nothing about you to Katharine until you give me permission."

"That is all I want to know," he said. Then he sat silent a moment, looking off into space.

"You are entitled," he said at last, "to know what I can tell you about that cryptogram page you brought to me."

"I am entitled to nothing, Jack," I said, "and I must not take up your time listening to it. I am sure you will tell my father everything."

"I already have," he answered, "except something that isn't mine to tell. But what your father knows he will tell you, I have no doubt."

"In his own good time," I amended, smiling.

"Exactly," he said. "But there is something you should know. The sheet of cryptograms which you brought to me is one of three, so vital to the thing upon which I am working that I cannot go on with the work without them. I have not your phenomenal memory, and even if I had, I would not dare to entrust anything so vital to it.

Stupefied by a Drug

"I checked everything the night before I left camp, and my file was complete then; nothing missing. I locked it and put it under my pillow, for we had to leave camp early the next morning. I never let that file leave my person; it was not bulky. The next chance I had to examine it without being observed was the night before I was to go on board ship. Then I missed the three sheets, and knew that somewhere I must have been given enough of a stupefying drug in my food to enable a spy to gain access to that file."

His voice ran down, and I put a crisp question.

"When you said 'we had to leave camp early,' whom did you mean by 'we'?"

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, June 6

Tension, agitation, strenuous and trying activities in an effort to put over some worthwhile projects or innovations, is indicated by the prevailing astral influences. But the culmination of such aggressive endeavors may be considered dubious because of a combination of treacheries and undercover tactics. Those come from individuals as well as corporations or big interests.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves keyed to high endeavor and energy for the accomplishment of big things, justified by sound programs and quickened executive ability, but there are to be several elements of opposition. Keep constantly alert in avoiding trickery and also refraining from excess generosity.

A child born on this day should have much constructive ability, determination, courage and conviction, with energy and initiative.

Individuals, as nations, unite harmoniously on the basis of justice, and this is accomplished when self is lost in Love—or God's own plan of salvation.—Mary Baker Eddy.
